

Fire Stick Ecology

by Vic Jurskis is now released.

Fire Stick Ecology is fair dinkum science, written in plain English. Vic Jurskis is renown as one of Australia's eminent Eucalypt scientists, and this book acknowledges fire stick ecology as a necessary management tool for the health of our bush.

Quotes from Vic's book:

\ Australia is currently suffering socioeconomic and environmental chaos because greens and academics have stolen the firestick from pragmatic scientific managers, and they don't know how to use it.*

\ The real environmental crisis in Australia is lack of mild fire or grazing or thinning in native vegetation. Megafires, chronic eucalypt decline, pestilence and loss of biodiversity are the consequences.*

\ To conserve biodiversity and live safely, we need to apply the firestick willingly, frequently and, with practice, skillfully.*

\ It is certain that man cannot control climate. However, man can eliminate megafires, enhance biodiversity and restore ecological resilience by using the firestick pragmatically and scientifically.*
